Outdoor Classroom Day

It was a real pleasure to be able to go ahead with Outdoor Classroom Day on Friday 19th, after having to reschedule. The day went off without a hitch and it was a pleasure to see the photographs of the children so engaged and physically active. I was on campfire duties with Allison so did not have a chance to wander around but all reports were extremely positive.

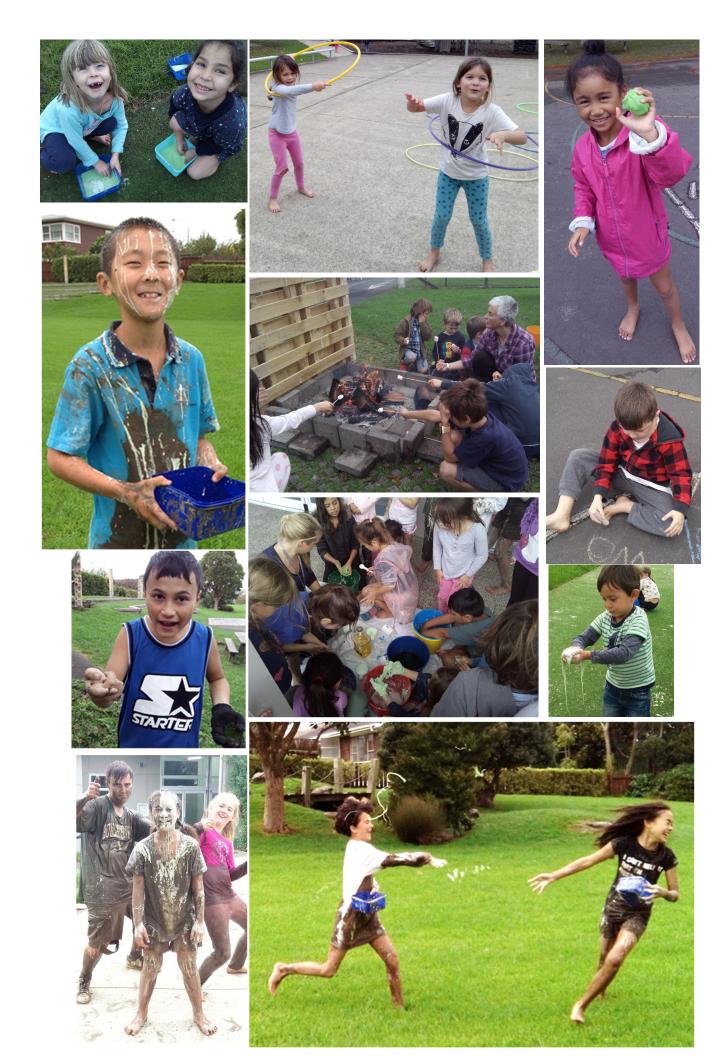

"ACADEMIC RESEARCH SHOWS THAT ACTIVE PLAY IS THE NATURAL AND PRIMARY WAY THAT CHILDREN LEARN"

Sir Ken Robinson, leading expert in education, creativity and human development

Children who have the freedom to play today — making friends, getting lost in the moment, having fun — are better prepared for whatever tomorrow throws at them. Playing helps children build friendships, test their own boundaries and solve their own problems. It's central to a child's development and to their enjoyment of childhood.

Although getting wet and muddy was certainly an option, it wasn't compulsory! Some children made and played with play dough or gloop; others rode their wheels around school or played hoola-hoop, elastics, knucklebones or skipping; some helped weed The Ridge; made fantastic chalk drawings or roasted marsh mallows on a campfire.

There was a huge amount of outdoor, physical activity; there was engagement, smiles and laughter. I saw awe and wonder on faces and watched children solving their own problems and organising their own time and activities. The adults involved had a pretty good time too!

There are lots more images of Outdoor Classroom Day on the website and on the screen in the foyer.

These are some comments from the kids:

- 'It was amazing because we got to do lots of awesome stuff!' Cameron;
- 'I loved making gloop and fighting with it!' Stella;
- 'The marshmallows were delicious,' George;
- 'I liked skating on my skateboard,' Isaac;
- 'We had lots and lots of fun because we put marshmallows on this fire,' Rodayna;
- 'I liked drawing with the chalk because I could draw lots of different hings,' Evie;
- 'I liked the mudslide. It was freezing cold!'
